I approve the use of this EntityID for the purpose of providing an outsourced Service Provider on behalf of Taylor & Francis group.

Attribute Support

Please note the following regarding attribute support. Neither Taylor & Francis (T&F) nor Atypon currently support attributes. T&F and Atypon jointly agree to implement the form of attribution called 'common lib terms' at the next major release of the Atypon Literatum platform on which www.tandfonline is built. Atypon will start evaluating adding support for the entitlement value "urn:mace:dir:entitlement:common-lib-terms". If this value is passed in the authentication request, the user will be granted access to all content the IdP/institution has licensed on <http://www.tandfonline.com/>. If this value is not passed, access will be denied. The preferred solution is to set the value on federation level (for example, for all IdPs/institutions that are member of your Federation), with potentially the option to modify the value on IdP/institution level.

This development is currently planned for delivery in Q2 2013.

Please contact Julie Sutton (Julie.Sutton@tandf.co.uk) in case of any further queries.
